Lieutenant General Vernon A. Walters, USA
Deputy Director
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D. C. 20505

Dear Dick:

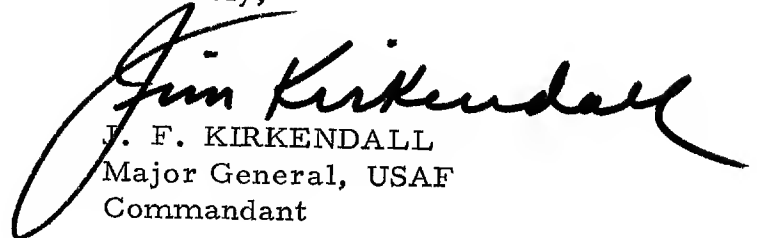

Thank you for a very excellent presentation. An understanding of the Agency and of the overall intelligence community and how it ties together is highly important in our course of instruction here. Therefore, I particularly appreciate your coming down and providing such an outstanding input to the curriculum.

It was a personal pleasure to see you and I hope you enjoyed the visit as much as we enjoyed having you here. I'll look forward to your returning here in the future.

Again many thanks for such fine support.

Very best personal regards.

Sincerely,

18 AUG 1972

Lieutenant General Vernon A. Walters, USA
Deputy Director
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D. C. 20505

Dear General Walters:

We are privileged at the Armed Forces Staff College to have lectures by senior military, congressional, and other distinguished government leaders. I hope that you will join our Guest Speaker Program and make a presentation on the National Intelligence Community to our Class 52 on Wednesday, 11 October. This is certainly a broad subject area, so we would appreciate it if you would concentrate on the following: the role of intelligence in development of U. S. national security policy; the capabilities and relationships of the major components of the intelligence community; and the role of the intelligence community in overseas operations.

Guest lectures at AFSC are scheduled for approximately 45 minutes starting at 10 o'clock in the morning. After a short break, a 45-minute question period follows. Following your presentation I would also like to invite you to join me and a small group of faculty and students for lunch.

The College conducts two 5-1/2 month classes each year. The curriculum includes an examination of the economic, political, psychological, and military aspects of our national strategy as well as intensive study of military operations and familiarization in foreign areas and ideologies. Classes are conducted on a seminar basis with guest speakers playing an important role in stimulating the discussions that follow in each seminar. Also, the guest speaker program keeps the curriculum current and in proper perspective.

Lieutenant General Vernon A. Walters, USA

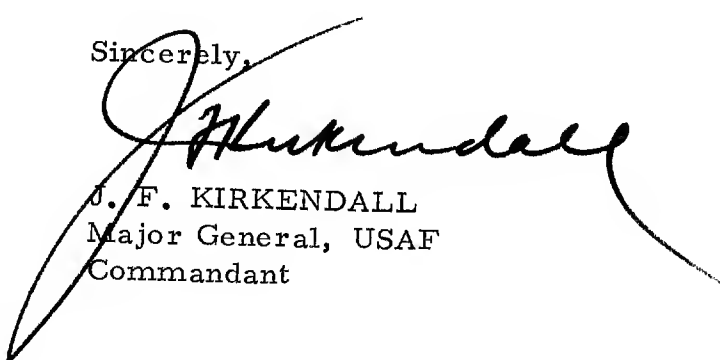

The student body at AFSC is made up predominantly of majors/lieutenant commanders plus some lieutenant colonels/commanders from all the U. S. Services, a few equivalent U. S. government civilians and allied students from Britain, France, Germany, Canada, Australia and New Zealand. While we strive to include the Allies in as many of our lectures as possible, we can exclude them if you would not be able to address the subjects indicated with the Allies present. The students are carefully selected and have a high potential to attain positions of major responsibility. Since the students are particularly well informed and highly motivated, most guest speakers have found it very refreshing to speak at AFSC.

Major Mary C. Werner, USA, Guest Speaker Office (Autovon 690-5109), will contact your staff to arrange the details of your visit.

I hope that you will be able to visit the College in October.

Very best personal regards.

Sincerely,

J. F. KIRKENDALL

All students are cleared for access to Top Secret material -- the foreign students by their own governments. Although these allied officers are authorized access only to such U. S. classified information as has been approved for release by appropriate disclosure authorities in accordance with National Disclosure Policies, it is desirable that they participate in the course of instruction to the fullest extent practicable. They are excluded only when the application of the National Disclosure Policies would require such modifications in the presentation as to nullify its effectiveness for U. S. students.

Major Mary G. Werner, Armed Forces Staff
College, Norfolk, called re Gen Walters' speech on 11 Oct.
